I will be back, says Goodwin

MARK GOODWIN (right) is hoping that his stay in the Second Division will be among the shortest in football history.

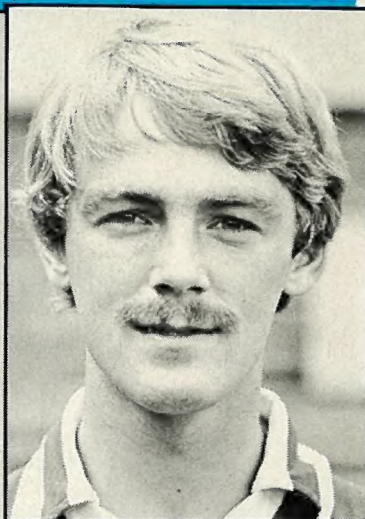

The 21-year-old midfielder took the trail from Leicester City to Notts County on transfer deadline day.

And as the £60,000 youngster explains:

"On the surface, leaving Filbert Street must look like a step backwards.

"But, I believe I will be back in the First Division with Notts County next season.

"If that happens and I establish a regular first team place — something I never really managed at Leicester — then the move will have been well worthwhile."

Alfie — man with a mission

DESPERATE to avoid their first ever season in the Fourth Division, Blackpool beat the transfer deadline to snap up former Scottish international strike Alfie Conn.

New 'Seasiders' boss Allan Brown now hopes that Alfie's goals will save the famous Lancashire club from relegation.

Alfie — the only player ever to play for both Rangers and Celtic — crossed over the border on a free transfer from Scottish Premier Division side Hearts.

"Helping keep Blackpool in Division Three is a challenge I'm relishing," said Alfie, who's last journey across the border ended in disappointment with Spurs.

"Hearts are fighting to stay in the Premier Division so joining a struggling club like Blackpool won't bother me.

"I reckon if we can win all our home games and pick up the odd point away we can still avoid the drop to the Fourth."

Earlier in his career Alfie was besieged by a series of knee injuries.

But since a spell in America he's once again proved his fitness and is enjoying life in the Third Division.

"I've only played a few games in the English League, but I find it great for a forward because you don't get tackled from behind," added Alfie.

Blackpool's new signing will commute from his Glasgow home to England.

He explained: "I run a pub with former Scotland and Rangers star Willie Henderson and still have a haulage business."

Palace new-boy David Price

Back to the Palace for Price

AFTER appearing in four Cup Finals in the space of three seasons with Arsenal, David Price is heading for the Second Division with Crystal Palace.

But the £150,000 deadline signing has no regrets about leaving the glamour of Highbury for the struggling club he supported as a boy.

"Coming from Croydon I supported Palace when they were in the Third Division and I always had a yearning to play for them," says the hard working midfield player, who was once loaned to Fourth Division Peterborough before making his name in the top flight.

"I didn't get to know anything about the move until a few hours before the transfer deadline so I never had long to make my mind up.

"But the move has enabled me to stay in London and provided me with first team football once again after spending most of this season in the reserves.

"I had three great years at Arsenal, so obviously it was a bit of a wrench to leave one of the best clubs in the country, but now I'm hoping to help bring some success to Palace."

Although Palace are slipping towards the First Division's trap door, David believes there is plenty of potential at the club.

"If I didn't think that I wouldn't have signed," he says.

"Let's face it, they were at the top of the First Division early last season so there must be some potential."

TOMMY LANGLEY spoke this week of his six wasted months at Queens Park Rangers and revealed he was only too pleased to get away.

"It was obvious I played no part in manager Terry Venables' plans so the best thing for me was a move," said Crystal Palace's new £200,000 striker.

"It was a relief for me to go because there are other players at Loftus Road in the same position as me who haven't been able to find new clubs," said Tommy, who joined Rangers from Chelsea at the start of the season, writes Anthony

'My wasted

Hawksell.

Since Venables replaced Tommy Docherty the 22-year-old striker has found himself in and out of the side.

"There's no quarrel between myself and Terry — in fact off the field we got on quite well. The simple matter was that he didn't rate me as a player.

"Towards the end of my spell there I was playing well and scoring a few goals. I hoped at one stage he might have second thoughts about selling me, but he didn't," said Tommy.

But the former Chelsea favourite believes the move to Crystal Palace has been a good one:

"Palace are like Chelsea — they're a club with a First Division set-up and I'm very happy to be joining them.

"It's important before we drop down to the Second Division to get a few good results that will stand us in good stead for next season."

But Tommy, who has played most of his career in the Second Division, knows that Palace have a difficult task ahead if they are to get back their Division One status at the first attempt.

"It's not an easy division to get out of, but with players of the calibre of England 'B' internationals Billy Gilbert and Paul Hinshelwood I reckon we can do it.

"The spirit at the club is great and I'm looking forward to a successful career with my new club," added Tommy.

HARTLEPOOL centre half John Bird certainly cut it fine when he moved from Doncaster Rovers to Preston North End in March 1971 . . . the transfer was completed exactly 30 seconds before the 5pm deadline time!

Einar likes our style

EINAR JAN AAS gave up the chance of a European Cup Winners medal with Bayern Munich to join Nottingham Forest, but revealed: "I have always wanted to play in England . . . particularly with Forest."

The Norwegian international got his first taste of English football at first hand when he watched Forest's FA Cup Sixth Round replay tie with Ipswich.

And although he saw his new team-mates lose 1-0 at Portman Road, he was left more convinced than ever that he had made the right move . . .

"The atmosphere at English football grounds really appeals to me. It was superb that night at Ipswich — even though the result could have been better.

"In Germany most of the stadiums are built for athletics, but in England it's football that's important. It's good for supporters to be much nearer the action.

"I like the style of play in England and I have admired the way Forest have achieved their success.

"Brian Clough and Peter Taylor are building a new, young side and I'm delighted to get the opportunity to be part of it."

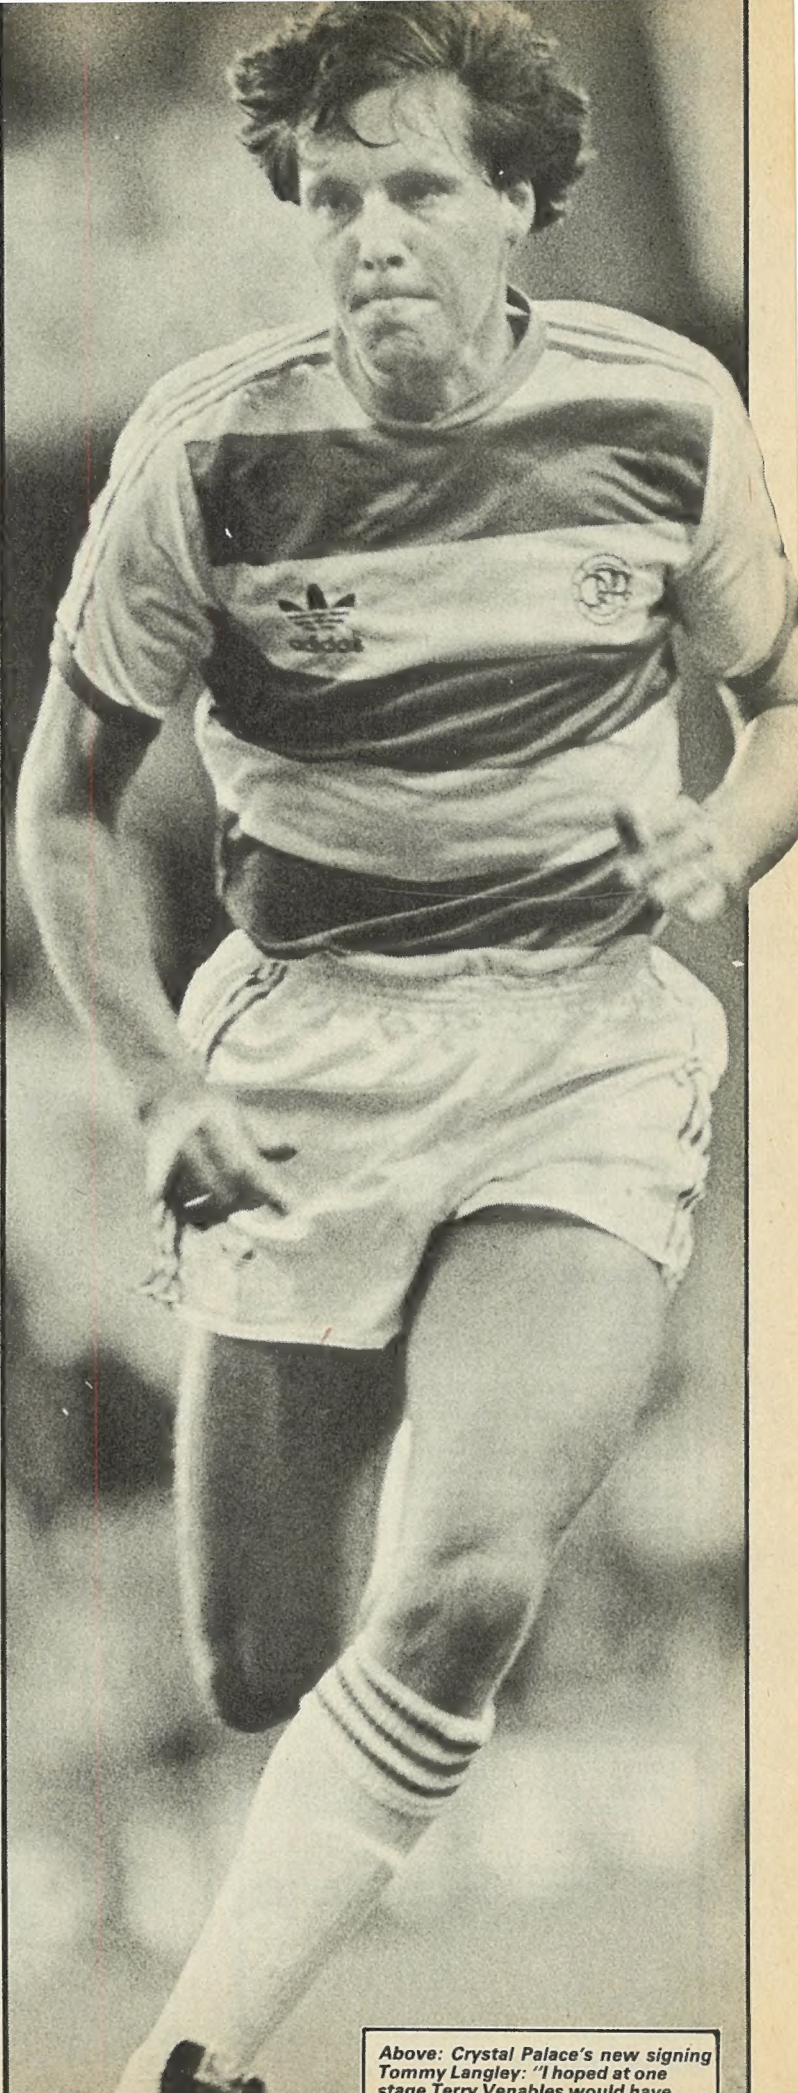

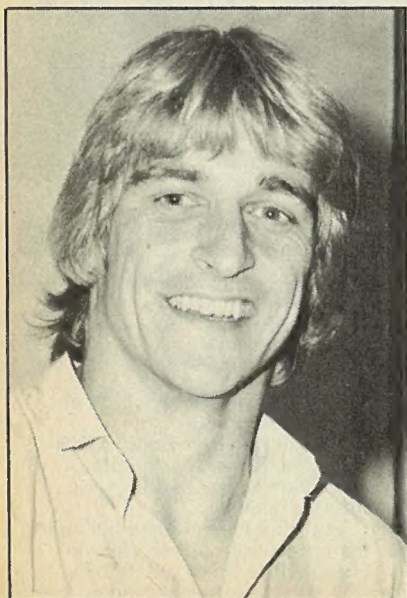

Einar, 25-years-old and capped 27 times by his country at senior level, arrived in Nottingham after 14 months with Germany champions Bayern.

But as he explained, it was a year of mixed fortunes:

"I enjoyed the experience because I learned a lot from playing professional football. It was a totally different type of game that I had been used to in Norway where it is much faster.

"The biggest problem for me in Germany was getting a regular first team place — I hope I will be a regular in England when I settle down."

ADDRESS

Not this time! Scotland's Alex McLeish gets a toe-end to foil Northern Ireland's Billy Hamilton, who had earlier given the Irish a surprise lead at Hampden Park, only for that man John Wark to earn the Scots a welcome equaliser in this World Cup clash.

Muhren back in style

AFTER three years in the international wilderness, Ipswich Town's Arnold Muhren returned to keep Holland's World Cup hopes alive in Rotterdam.

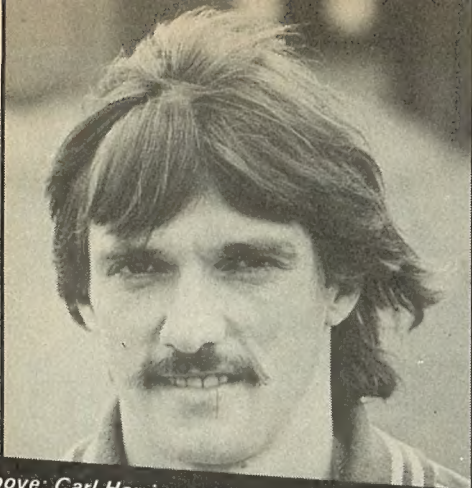

After being left out of the 1978 Dutch squad for Argentina, Muhren was reputed to have refused to have his name considered for future internationals. But he was persuaded to make a comeback and his brilliant 47th minute free-kick, which dipped over the defensive wall, was enough to stun the French.

THE CRUCIAL goal which put Wales within an ace of qualifying for Spain and which earned a 1-0 win in Ankara, was Carl Harris' first in 18 internationals.

Turkey's Husnu used his head instead of his boot to clear a 66th minute cross and Harris

Above: Carl Harris . . . Wales' second-half match-winner in Turkey, where goalkeeper Dai Davies played an heroic role in the victory which put the Welsh within sight of a place in next year's finals in Spain.

Right: Take that! Glenn Hoddle smashes in England's equaliser with a 25-yard volley in the friendly international at Wembley. But the Spaniards struck back to land a shock win with goals from Satrustegui and Zamora.

ACTION

'My delight . . . my dismay'

"I MUST have been one of the last people to see my goal against Spain!

"The first chance I got to watch it on the box was in my hotel room prior to Spurs League game with Coventry on Saturday.

"A lot of people were coming up to me and saying what a good goal it was, but it was difficult to comment not having seen it properly.

"I remember the big fella' Maceda heading it out.

"As the ball came out I made the ground up and decided to hit it first time.

"Instinct just took over when the chance presented itself, but if it happened next Saturday I would do the same again.

"Of course I was delighted to score what was my third goal in five full internationals, but everyone was very dismayed with the result."

blasted the rebound in from 12 yards, admitting: "I'm enjoying a scoring run with Leeds and I felt before the game I'd get a goal."

Said manager Mike England: "If we win our next two matches at home to Russia and Iceland, we'll qualify."

COMMENTED England's 'Match' columnist Paul Mariner after the shock defeat by Spain: "What a disappointing night.

"We were upset by our performance, but despite what people have said, we had an excellent team on paper but we couldn't get it right on the night.

"The Spaniards have improved since last year, but we didn't get any real pattern in our play. Let's hope we can make Rumania suffer on April 29 in the World Cup tie."

EIRE'S players were still fuming long after their one goal defeat by the Belgians in Brussels, before Ceuleman's late winner, Stapleton had flicked in Brady's free-kick only for the referee to rule it out for pushing.

Unable to repeat his form for Spurs, disappointing Steve Archibald holds off the challenge of Ireland's Sammy McIlroy.

STAR GALLERY

BRIAN Flynn of Leeds United and Wales drawn by Michael Foden (12), of Cheadle, Stoke-on-Trent. "A great little player," he says.

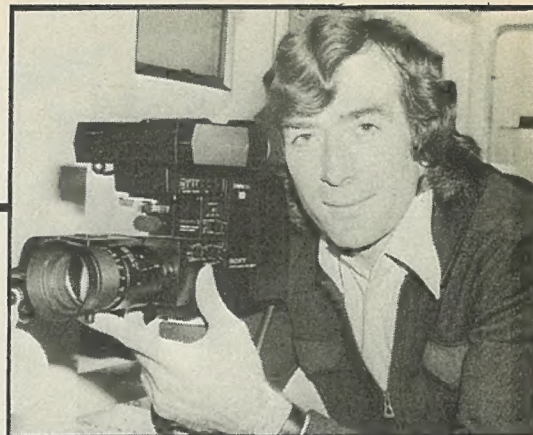

THIS superb portrait of Sheffield Wednesday winger Terry Curran was supplied by Brian Welch (14), of Lydiate, Merseyside. "I regard Terry as the most entertaining player in the country. He is the only player I would travel to see," says Brian.

EVERTON skipper Mick Lyons comes into the gallery by courtesy of Ian Taylor (14), of Harrogate, Yorks. "Mick's a very underrated player and has been exceptionally loyal and consistent with Everton," he says.

Lensman Pat ►

ARSENAL and Northern Ireland goalkeeper Pat Jennings tries his hand at the other side of a camera at the Home Video show in London. But it wasn't too long before Pat found himself back in the cameraman's lens.

ESCAPE ARTISTS

WHEN it comes to escaping relegation Cardiff City have no equals.

In nine of the last 15 seasons they have clung on by their finger tips.

Three times they have stayed up by virtue of a better goal average; four times they have missed the drop by just one point; and they have also avoided relegation by two points and three points.

Surprise, surprise, they are on the brink of the relegation zone again this time.

Goal-grabber Peach

SWINDON Town's David Peach holds a record that no-one in the Football League's 93 years has ever matched or is likely to equal.

His 66 goals in the League to date are far more than any other full back has ever scored.

Same again!

SPURS and Wolves — opponents in one of Saturday's F.A. Cup semi-final ties — were due to meet each other in the League on the same date!

POLICE 'FIVES'!

GOOD news for youngsters . . . there is to be a repeat of the biggest five-a-side football competition in the world.

Once again it will be organised by the Metropolitan Police, sponsored by the Midland Bank and the Football Association will give their support.

Last year the competition, for boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 17, attracted 48,000 youngsters and qualified for an entry into the Guinness Book of Records. The final is staged at the Wembley Arena.

LEAGUE leaders Ipswich will be travelling to their away games in style following the delivery of a new team coach (pictured above).

The First Division pacemakers have just taken delivery of a £60,000 coach that is the ultimate in luxury travel.

It is on two levels and has two television sets and videos plus kitchen, bed, and toilet facilities.

The Volvo coach is one of only 12 in the country.

'Fly? I'd rather drive' says Asa

EVERTON'S gutsy midfielder Asa Hartford is not one to shirk a challenge on the field . . . but panic set in at the thought of flying down to Southampton in a 16-seater plane.

So while his team mates took to the air for their midweek League match at the Dell earlier this month . . . Asa drove down in his car the night before.

Explained the Scottish international star: "Flying in a big plane doesn't worry me that much, but I wasn't going to board the one we had for the Southampton match.

"It would have been all-right had we flown down a couple of days before the game because I could have taken a couple of 'happy pills' but the lads didn't fly down until the day of the game."

Long and the Short of it!

LINCOLN City had two aptly named players during season 1958-59 . . . centre-half Ray Long who stood at 6ft 2ins and winger Joe Short who was just 5ft 2ins!

Young offender

BIRMINGHAM full-back Mark Dennis holds the unenviable record of being the youngest player ever to be sent off twice in one season. It happened in season 1978-79 when he was just 18 . . . and in both cases the opponents were Wolves!

Goal famine

IN SEASON 1971-72 Mansfield Town had to wait until their tenth home game before scoring their first HOME goal.

Ice cool is Alex!

DREAM-debuts don't come much better than the one enjoyed by 19-year-old goalkeeper Alex Williams.

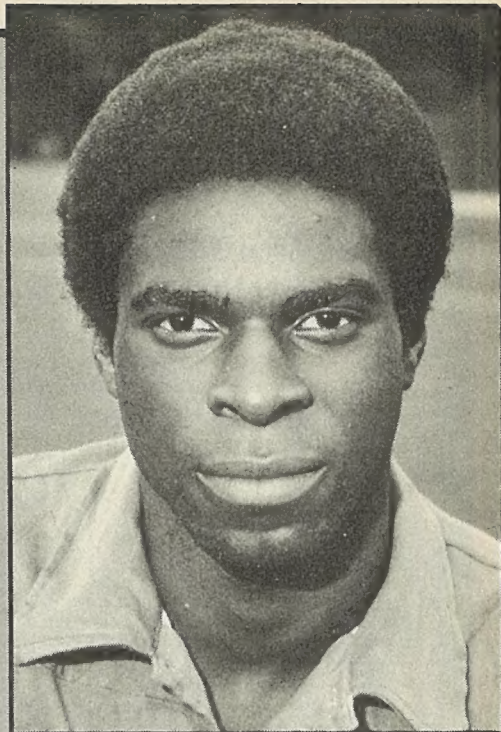

He only had a handful of reserve team games to his credit when the first team call up came.

But he ended his debut match — for Manchester City against West Bromwich Albion — on the winning side and clutching the 'man of the match' award after an ice-cool performance.

All season, Alex — born within yards of City's ground on Moss Side, Manchester — had been third choice 'keeper at the club.

But with reserve team keeper Keith MacRae off to America and first-choice Joe Corrigan pulling out of the match with a late injury his chance came out of the blue.

Looking back on his debut, Alex, who used to stand on the 'Kippax' watching his heroes, said:

"I still can't believe it. I couldn't have wished for a better debut. I didn't know it at the time, but my dad was watching the game from the stands so that was great.

"I must thank Joe Corrigan for all the help he has given me while I have been at City."

AND LOOK where they finished... Division One champions: Liverpool; Division Two: Crystal Palace; Division Three: Shrewsbury; Division Four: Reading; Scottish Premier Division: Celtic; Division One: Dundee.

FOR a man who missed three penalties for his country, John Wark has a confident, almost arrogant, way of thumping spot kicks past goalkeepers.

Wark's successful conversion in the recent UEFA Cup tie with St. Etienne brought his total from the start of last season to 16.

And that same goal established a new Ipswich record of 26 successful strikes from a possible 28.

The gritty midfielder who was recently voted Players' Player of the Year is riding high near the top of the Match Weekly penalty chart.

But as John revealed, there have been those moments when he wished the ground would open up.

"I've missed three penalties when playing for Scotland — one for the youths, another for the under 21s and the other at full international level.

"The two I've missed for Ipswich came penalty secrets

against Leeds and Tottenham. I smacked the bar against Leeds and hit the keeper's legs with the other one. But it's no good worrying about them.

"The secret of taking penalties is confidence. Every time I've missed one it's been on a day when I've not been playing that well and I've not been 100% confident when I've stepped up to take it.

"I'm not a nervous player normally and if I've been having a reasonable game the pressure doesn't worry me. I usually score.

BY JOHN WARK

"There's a bit of kidology in penalty taking and I also have a system — but I don't want to reveal too much to goalkeepers I might be facing one day!"

It was because of penalty misses by other players that John first had the chance to become a spot-kick king.

"It was Colin Viljoen, now Chelsea, or Trevor Whymark, now Grimsby, who took them for Ipswich at the time," recalled John.

"But they both missed penalties and I was given the job because I had taken them for the youth team and reserves."

CONTINUING our fascinating insight into the world of the penalty kings... this week Luton's David Moss and Ipswich Town's John Wark.

AS A striker, Luton's David Moss regards penalty taking as simply a good chance to increase his goal tally.

And the former Swindon winger has been doing just that since he volunteered for the job at Luton just over two seasons ago when Lil Fucillo broke a leg.

"When I'm taking penalties I don't worry about how vital they might be.

"It's only afterwards that I begin to realise what a fool I would have been had I missed," says David, who had banged in 14 between the start of last season and March 21 this year.

"I have seen some great penalty takers in training, but they don't like taking them in a match.

"It doesn't bother me. As a striker it's a good chance to add to the goal tally.

"Last season I tended to put all my penalties into the same spot, but this time I have been switching about because goalkeepers soon catch on."

Runaway Second Division leaders West Ham can vouch for David's penalty prowess.

He scored twice from the spot in Luton's 2-1 victory at Upton Park on the opening day of the season.

He has missed only two for Luton but one was in the recent 1-0 home defeat by Newcastle which jolted the club's promotion ambitions.

"Everything was going wrong that day so I suppose my penalty miss was to be expected," recalls David.

"If I miss another one I might well offer the job to someone else... if anybody wants it."

The highlight of my career

WHAT a difference a close season can make.

In my first five months at Villa Park I struggled to find my form.

And I never dreamed that my first full season with the club would bring me my first taste of success.

But that's just what happened . . .

We finished fourth in the First Division — walloping eventual League Champions Liverpool 5-1 on the way — and won the League Cup after a marathon final with Everton.

Yes, the 1976-77 season was one to remember.

It started in the best possible way with a 4-0 win over West Ham on the opening day of the season.

Andy Gray (now with Wolves) got his best-ever season off to a terrific start by grabbing two goals in that game.

And as some Villa fans will remember he finished the campaign with 25 League goals to his credit and was voted both PFA 'Player of the Year' and 'Young Player of the Year'.

But despite our good form in the League, the highlight of the season — and indeed my career so far — has to be our League Cup success.

The most memorable moment along the road to Wembley was when we beat Queen's Park Rangers in a semi-final replay.

The realisation that we had made it to the final of a major competition was a thrilling experience.

As for our final against Everton, it must go down as the longest in history.

We drew 0-0 at Wembley, 1-1 at Hillsborough (after extra time) and eventually beat them 3-2 at Old Trafford — also after extra time!

The Wembley match itself was something of an anti-climax. It is a bit of a blur for me because everything happened so quickly.

When we drew the replay at Sheffield Wednesday we were all still relieved to be in with a chance.

But at Old Trafford we deserved to win.

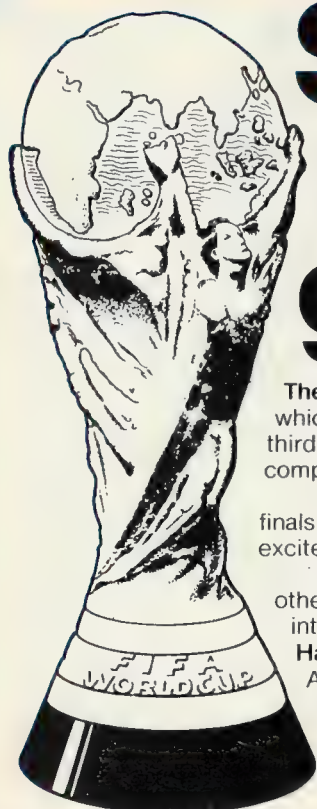

I remember Chris Nicholl (now with Southampton) shooting us back into the game after we trailed 1-0 and from then on it was our trophy.

Brian Little was the real hero of the tie however because he scored the two other goals.

It's a new-look Villa side now of course. Of that Cup winning side only myself and Gordon Cowans are still playing for the club.

Far right: Gary Shaw — a place in the England squad at this stage would have put him in a false position.

Right: Spurs' Glenn Hoddle — one of the reasons I may never get a full England cap.

Gary's not ready for England

Aston Villa's title-chasing skipper writes for Match

ENGLAND manager Ron Greenwood must experiment with the good young midfield players around today if we are to make an impact in next year's World Cup finals.

I'm talking about players of the calibre of my Villa team mate Gordon Cowans, Glenn Hoddle of Spurs and West Brom's Bryan Robson.

And that's why I've resigned myself to the fact that I am one of England's fringe players and may never get the chance of a full cap.

Of course I was delighted to captain the England 'B' team in their game against Switzerland.

But I'm a realist when I consider my chances of making the full England team.

I know a lot of people were hoping to see Gary Shaw's name in the full-squad for the game against Spain at Wembley.

Personally I wasn't surprised.

Gary fully deserved the honour of PFA 'Young Player of the Year' for the tremendous job he's done at Villa this season.

But he's still only a teenager and I think he's starting to feel the effects of a long hard season.

A place in the England squad at this stage would have put him in a false position and may have put him under unnecessary pressure.

Don't get me wrong. I have every reason to believe that Gary will play for England one day, but it's my belief that he won't be able to give everything for a whole season until he's about 22.

At the moment he's probably only good for about 30 games a season and then, being a young lad, he needs the rest of the team to pull him through.

Having said that I did find it surprising that, despite the entertaining football we have played this season, we didn't have one player in either the England or Scotland squads announced last month.

I realise playing for an international side is different and England manager Ron Greenwood must play a cagey game, but at times it seems the 'old names' are picked whether or not they are playing well for their clubs.

I feel that the current Villa side is the best I have played in — both from the point of view of individual skill and teamwork — and we believe we can win the League.

In the end it may be the survival of the fittest and I hope that's where we will score.

EUROPEAN

CAPTAIN

BAYERN'S BLAST.

BAYERN Munich will be hoping to blast their way into the European Cup Final when they come to Anfield on Wednesday.

And when I say blast I mean just that.

Having spent three years with SV Hamburg, I know that the Germans are among the world's best when it comes to unleashing unstoppable shots from outside the area.

In this country it seems that a player will shoot from 30 yards only in desperation.

But in Germany the players are encouraged to try it. As a result they do more of it and therefore they are better at it than us.

There's no doubt also that the 32-panel ball they use over there makes it easier to hit those dipping, swerving shots that are a nightmare for goalkeepers.

And the bad news for Liverpool is that the Bayern team is full of players capable of sending in those long range benders.

Neidrmayer is the dead ball specialist in the side and he'll be looking to catch Clemence out from anything up to about 35 yards out.

'GERMAN SHOTS ARE AMONG THE WORLD'S BEST'

Breitner also has a terrific shot and Durnberger, who scored in the 4-1 semi-final defeat of Banik Ostrava, is liable to flash one in from anywhere.

He's especially good on the break — and that's how Bayern will play it at Anfield.

They are at their best when you are going at them. They turn defence into attack so quickly it catches teams off guard.

The inspiration of the side is Paul Breitner, the former international full-back who now plays in midfield.

Breitner is the engine room, he stokes them up with unbelievable 50 to 60 yard balls.

And the man that most of them will be aimed at is Karl Heinz Rummenigge, the blond striker who has rightly been voted European Footballer of the Year.

Rummenigge has an incredible knack of being almost offside — but not quite.

He has terrific pace and times his runs perfectly . . . that's how

Bayern 'keeper holds the key he scores many of his goals.

He'll also be looking for knock downs from Dieter Hoeness — brother of the better known Uli Hoeness.

Dieter is a big, gangly striker who plays very much like John Toshack did at Liverpool.

By German standards he's very, very good in the air.

Liverpool have a few ace cards of their own, of course, and they are always liable to score goals.

A fit Kenny Dalglish will be able to turn the tall stocky central defenders and someone like Steve Heighway could do well down the flanks.

The in-form Graeme Souness will be hoping to add to his three goals in the last round and his midfield battle with Breitner will be crucial.

A lot will depend on the performance of Junghans, the Bayern 'keeper.

He is a young lad who will almost certainly go on to play for his country, but he has never played anywhere like Anfield and the atmosphere might just get to him.

It has got the makings of a great game. Goals will be scarce in the return leg and I think it is at Anfield that the tie will be won or lost.

ANYONE who thinks Cologne will be coming to Portman Road to defend has a big surprise in store.

I can't think of any German side that commits itself to defence — even away from home.

In fact, their away form is the reason they do so well in Europe.

Cologne are the perfect example. A 4-0 second round, second leg win in Barcelona was a tremendous result.

So far in the competition they have scored 22 goals, three of them coming against Belgian club Standard Liege in their last game.

I thought Cologne were a little lucky to beat Liege and by their standards they are not having a great season in the Bundesliga.

A 3-0 defeat in Nuremberg a couple of weeks back left them sixth in the table.

But despite all that you can bet that Cologne will come to Ipswich looking for goals.

No doubt Ipswich will put them under pressure, but like Bayern that is when they are most dangerous . . . striking out of defence quickly and brilliantly.

A player to watch out for is Dieter Muller, the striker hailed as the new Gerd Muller in the 1980 European Championships.

Muller's a good finisher — the fact that he's scored eight goals in the competition so far will tell Ipswich all they need to know.

The Swiss international, Botteron, is another important

Ipswich

COLOGNE striker Tony Woodcock summed up the tough test his side face against Ipswich when he said: "They are probably the best side in Europe on current form."

Added the England international: "Ipswich were the team everyone wanted to miss and given the choice of the teams left we would have preferred the French side Sochaux."

"Having said that we are all looking forward to playing in England."

Cologne have already disposed of two of the bigger names in the UEFA Cup on their way to the semi-finals . . . Spanish side Barcelona and Standard Liege

And in both cases the damage was done away from home — Cologne winning 4-0 in Spain and 3-2 in Liege.

"The goals have been pretty well spread throughout the team, but Dieter Muller is our top goalscorer."

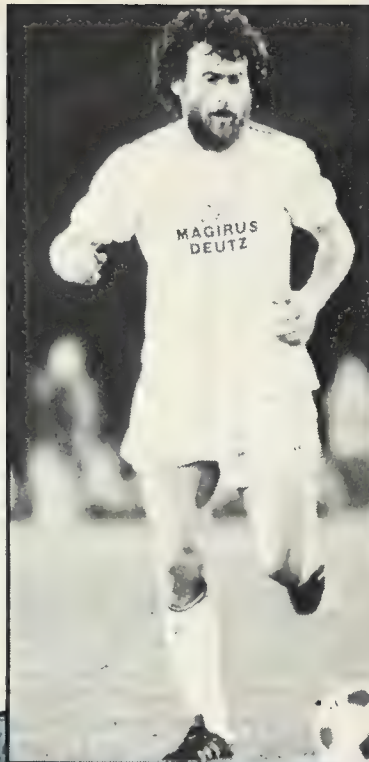

"He's the man with the job of sticking the ball in the net."

"Rene Botteron, a Swiss international, has been playing well for us in midfield and we also have Rainer Bonhof in that department — he's a real fighter who keeps going for 90 minutes."

"Cologne have had three different trainers since I have

John McAlle

From wilderness to Wembley

BIG defender John McAlle has virtually climbed off the scrap heap at Wolves to within touching distance of an FA Cup Final appearance at Wembley in just a matter of weeks.

At the turn of the year his days at the club seemed numbered.

He was battling back from the tragedy of a broken leg sustained in the FA Cup fifth round defeat by Watford last season with little sign of emerging from the wilderness of reserve team football.

Such was his frustration that he was prepared to end his long association with the only club of his distinguished professional career.

Fairytale

But now he's back in the heart of the Wolves defence with just Tottenham barring his way to a romantic Wembley fairytale.

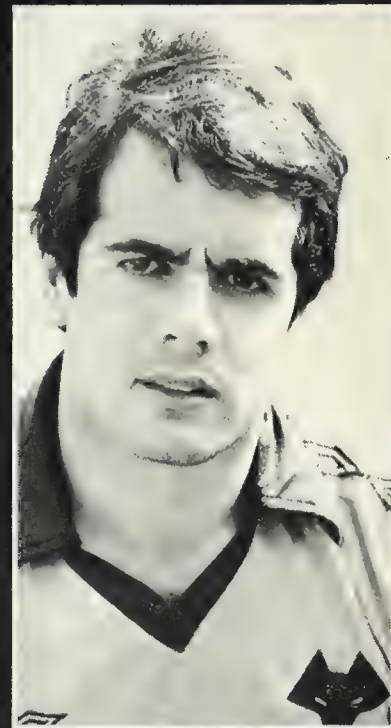

"At Christmas I was beginning to think that my first team chance had gone, even though I had been fit since the start of the season," recalls John.

"Even when they had a few injuries I was not given the chance to prove myself, although I felt I was still good enough to play in the First Division."

But in the end manager John Barnwell had no real option but to recall John for the FA Cup third round replay with Stoke in January.

"With Emlyn Hughes suspended and both Colin Brazier and Rafael Villazan injured, I was given the chance."

"I suppose I was determined to prove that I was still a First Division player and people are saying that I am playing better than ever."

Above: Rafael Villazan — injuries to him and Colin Brazier gave McAlle the chance to prove he is still a First Division player.

"I'm not too sure whether they are right but I know that I am certainly enjoying playing in the team which is doing so well."

"We seem to be able to raise our game for cup ties, but lack consistency in the League."

John has a League Cup winners' medal with Wolves but going to Wembley in the FA Cup Final would top his career.

"I have had some good times with Wolves. We were in the UEFA Cup final in 1972, won the League Cup two years later and clinched the Second Division title, but to play in the 100th FA Cup Final would be the highlight."

"We face a tough test against Tottenham. Let's face it, no bad sides reach the semi-finals."

"I'm expecting a hard time against Garth Crooks and Steve Archibald who seem to have hit it off at White Hart Lane."

"But we are optimistic about getting to Wembley again. You've got to be confident otherwise it wouldn't be worth playing."

Villa lack the killer instinct

I BELIEVE I've spotted a weakness in Aston Villa's armour which could have a vital bearing on their championship challenge.

Two Peter Withe goals up against us at Villa Park, they had us dead and buried but they seemed to lack that killer instinct which a title-chasing team needs.

They relaxed and Joe Jordan put us back in the game. And with a last minute Sammy McIlroy penalty we finally managed a 3-3 draw.

Can you imagine Liverpool letting someone off the hook like that at Anfield? I can't — and that's why I believe Ipswich have what it takes.

Yes, even though we beat them in a sea of mud at Old Trafford to give our fans a much-needed boost John Wark and Co. still look the better bet.

We were delighted with that result by the way, particularly as we were without Ray Wilkins, Sammy McIlroy and Lou Macari in midfield. Kevin Moran, Mickey Thomas and Mike Duxbury came in and did a fabulous job for us as we hounded Ipswich out of it, refusing to let their midfield settle on the ball as they love to do.

The conditions obviously didn't suit the Ipswich style; Muhren and Thijssen need the top of the ground to be most effective. The next few weeks will be a test for them with the fixture card Enemy No. 1 and the need to steer clear of injury so vital.

Manchester United's England star writes just for you.

STEVE COPPELL

Wark, the motivator

I WAS delighted to see Ipswich get the recognition they deserve from the Players' Player of the Year dinner, when Frans Thijssen and Paul Mariner finished close behind John Wark in the poll.

John had my personal vote, not only for scoring over 30 goals this season from midfield, but also for his all round involvement. I'm convinced he's the motivating force behind the Ipswich success story.

That gathering at the Hilton gave me the chance to talk over old times with Brian Greenhoff, who's now at Leeds and to meet one of my pop idols Justin Hayward of the Moody Blues, who was thrilled to see his home town manager John Trollope of Swindon receive a merit award.

By the way I spent most of the night with my shoe off because of a nasty blister and I bet I looked a strange sight hopping for the taxi with Ray Wilkins.

We had to be up at 5.30 the next morning to get back to Manchester for training — or risk the wrath of Tommy Cavanagh!

I WAS chatting to Bob from Match the other day about boots and he thought you might be interested to know about mine.

The ones I wear are made at the Patrick factory in Walsall (I feel like a pop star plugging his latest record!) and I'm quite a regular visitor there because I like to keep up with design trends.

As a boy and at the start of my professional career with Tranmere Rovers I always used to buy size eights and wear a pair of nylon socks inside my football socks to get a snug fit.

But not now. I ask the factory to send me size six (39s in continental fitting) and then I really soak them. I have been known to sit in the bath in my boots so the leather will stretch and mould itself round my feet, but usually a week's wet weather training will do the trick.

I wouldn't advise youngsters whose feet are still growing to buy boots two sizes too small, but it's something to bear in mind when you get older. For now, simply make sure you look after your boots by washing them as soon as you get home. Stuff them with newspaper to keep the shape and dry them slowly — not by the fire or in the airing cupboard. Under the bed for a couple of days should be enough, then slap as much polish on as they'll stand.

That was the week
that was
APRIL 4 to 10

IPSWICH will be hoping that history repeats itself next week, when they face Manchester City in the FA Cup semi-finals.

Three years ago (on April 8, 1978) they defeated West Bromwich Albion 3-1 at the same stage of the competition to reach the final for the first time in their history.

And Town's John Wark, who scored in the 3-1 victory, has another good reason to remember this particular week.

On April 5 last year he scored his first-ever hat-trick for the club in the 4-2 defeat of East Anglian rivals Norwich.

Meanwhile, here are a few more notable milestones from this corresponding week in years gone by.

April 4, 1975 . . . Former Liverpool favourite Ron Yeats is sacked as player-manager of Tranmere . . . 1978 and Watford clinch promotion from the Third Division . . . 1979 and Manchester United reach their third FA Cup Final in four years with a Jimmy Greenhoff winner against Liverpool.

April 5, 1978 . . . Frank McLintock resigns after ten months in charge of Leicester City.

April 6, 1977 . . . Liverpool win 3-1 in Zurich in the first leg of their European Cup semi-final with two goals from right back Phil Neal.

April 7, 1973 . . . Sunderland beat Arsenal 2-1 to become the first Second Division team to reach an FA Cup Final since 1964 . . . and Emlyn Hughes (now Wolves) is sent off in the last minute as Liverpool lose 2-1 at Birmingham . . .

1975 and Manchester United win 1-0 at Southampton to clinch promotion from Division Two.

April 8, 1978 . . . Malcolm Macdonald scores twice in Arsenal's 3-0 FA Cup semi-final win over Orient.

April 9, 1975 . . . John Mitchell scores in the last minute of extra time against Birmingham to put Fulham into the FA Cup Final against London rivals West Ham who defeat Ipswich 2-1.

Do us a favour, Albion!

STAY-AT-HOME Aston Villa fans will be cheering rivals West Brom to victory on Saturday.

For while their own team travels to lowly Leicester, Albion entertain Ipswich.

And the Hawthorns side can do Villa a big favour by taking two points off their main challengers in the championship race.

Of course a win is just as vital to Albion's own cause as they chase a European place.

And as one of the few teams to come away from Portman Road this season with anything more than a headache (they drew 0-0 there in November), an Albion victory on Saturday would be no surprise.

Points are not quite so vital at St. Andrews where BIRMINGHAM entertain MIDDLESBROUGH — both teams looking destined for mid-table positions at the end of the season.

But 'Blues' striker Frank Worthington will be looking to complete his own personal double over the North-East side, having scored both goals in Birmingham's 2-1 win up at Ayresome Park back in November.

No joy for 'Boro' this time either, I fear.

● Right: Tottenham striker Steve Archibald — his two goals earned his side a point at Goodison Park earlier this season and he's the man Everton must watch when they visit White Hart Lane in the return on Saturday.

Revenge for Norwich

Relegation battlers NORWICH can, I believe, restore some pride with the visit of MANCHESTER CITY to Carrow Road.

Norwich suffered a humiliating 6-0 defeat at the hands of City in the Fourth Round of the FA Cup and a result for the home side on Saturday would delight 'Canaries' fans.

CAMBRIDGE UNITED meanwhile will be looking to avenge their 6-1 defeat at BOLTON's Burnden Park when the two teams meet again at the Abbey Stadium . . . and they should get the result they want.

Bolton striker Brian Kidd will be lucky to repeat his hat-trick feat this time around.

IN THE table on the left Match writer Paul Stratton has predicted scorelines for ten of Saturday's matches and the challenge is . . . beat him if you can.

Award yourself two points for every score you get right and one point if you get a result right (i.e. home win, away win, draw) but the scoreline wrong.

And why not challenge your friends at the same time?

BANISHED!

But now Tommy's back in the goals business

TOMMY English's career as a First Division striker could well have been rescued by Coventry manager Gordon Milne.

In the words of the young forward: "He gave me what amounted to a kick up the backside and it seems to have worked."

That 'kick' came in the shape of banishment into the wilderness at Highfield Road for three months while the young Coventry side were enjoying League Cup glory.

But Tommy, recalled for the FA Cup fourth round tie at Tottenham, bounced back with six goals in a five-match spell — including a hat-trick in the 4-1 slamming of Leicester City.

"Leaving me out in the cold for such a long time has done me a power of good," says Tommy, who started the season with an impressive League record of ten goals in thirty games.

"But at the time I didn't see things that way. It was frustrating to see the first team soaking up the League Cup atmosphere while Coventry's Tommy English (left) in action against Wolves' George Berry — "Being left out of the side has made me determined to prove myself."

I was training with the apprentices.

"I think my trouble at the beginning of the season was that I thought I had already made it in the First Division and, as a result, wasn't doing my job.

"But being left out has made me determined to prove that I was good enough to have been in the side all season."

Tommy scored in the 3-1 defeat at Tottenham, added two more in the win at Crystal Palace a few days later and then blasted relegation-threatened Leicester with his first-ever League hat-trick.

"I think I've added a bit more aggression to my game since being dropped and the goals have started to come again.

"In fact, I dreamed about scoring a hat-trick a few days before the match with Leicester and I phoned my father on the Friday night and told him.

"Now I plan to give him the match ball when he comes up from Colchester for a Coventry match.

"And I've got no intention of going through that kind of spell again. My immediate ambition is to stay in the first team and help Coventry win a major honour.

"Anything more than that, like an England Under-21 cap, would be just a bonus."

Pick the men in form, Ron

RON Greenwood's squad for the match with Spain at Wembley was as predictable as ever.

I cannot accept that he is choosing people on merit — particularly as there were no Aston Villa players included.

I feel Greenwood is falling into the same trap which led to the downfall of Sir Alf Ramsey and the resignation of Don Revie.

He is picking players who have done well for him in the past as opposed to those who are playing well now.

England failed miserably in the European Championship finals and should have started to build a younger, more adventurous side immediately.

Instead Greenwood continues to rely on his 'old faithfuls'.

Because of this failing England will continue to disappoint on the big occasion.

Thomas Lynn, Middle Herrington, Sunderland.

Aston Villa's Peter Withe (right) in action against Ipswich. He deserves an England chance says Mark Ledo.

£10 WINNER

Your Wembley views . . .

THE Wembley League Cup Final between Liverpool and West Ham took its fair share of criticism . . . and so too did referee Clive Thomas.

Here's a selection of your views on the match and the way it was refereed . . .

Ref was right

CLIVE Thomas handled the final brilliantly. I agree that Sammy Lee was not interfering with play when Alan Kennedy scored Liverpool's goal.

With respect to West Ham 'keeper Phil Parkes I don't think he would have saved the shot even if Lee had not been where he was.

Jonathan Peake (16), Harefield, Southampton.

Parkes — my man of the match

I THOUGHT the League Cup Final was the most exciting game I had seen for a long time.

Both goalkeepers deserved praise, but I made Phil Parkes my man of the match.

However I think referee Clive Thomas must be an ex-Liverpool supporter.

Lee was offside and the Alan Kennedy goal should have been disallowed.

Jonathan Mann (12), Heslingden, Lancs.

World class Clive

CLIVE Thomas is a world class referee, but he was wrong to allow Liverpool's goal.

Alan Kennedy's shot travelled over Sammy Lee's head and if he had not lowered his head the ball would have struck him.

I also believe Clive was wrong to disallow Sammy Lee's effort in the first half.

Colin Irwin was the man off-side, but he wasn't in line with the ball or in the goalkeeper's view.

Robert Quinn, Gatley, Cheshire.

Change the laws

FOLLOWING the big argument about the Liverpool goal in the League Cup Final I suggest that if a player is off-side when a goal goes in it should be disallowed — whether or not that player is judged to be interfering with play.

Hazel Cook, Easton-on-the-Hill, Northants.

TERRACE TALK

Shame on the knockers

I WAS disgusted by press reports of the League Cup Final.

The fans were treated to 120 minutes of pure attacking and exciting football — provided by two of the most attractive sides in the country.

What a shame to see so many newspapers unjustifiably knocking our game again.

Thomas Pullar-Strecker, Oxted, Surrey.

THE MIDLANDS' FORGOTTEN MEN

RON GREENWOOD does not seem to realise that the Midlands exists . . . and yet that's where the best players are.

For example we have Gordon Cowans and Peter Withe from Villa, Cyrille Regis, Derek Statham and Gary Owen from West Brom and Kenny Hibbitt and John Richards from Wolves.

They are always overlooked.

It took far too long for Bryan Robson to get into the England team, but since getting his first cap he has shown what a good player he is.

So come on Ron — watch a few games in the Midlands and forget London and Liverpool

Mark Ledo, Pelsall, West Midlands.

Johnston's a joke!

Sent off!
£5

CRAIG Johnson (by England?) No way!

He's one of the worst players I have ever seen — especially in the kit. Tell him to go back to Australia.

Mark Pullet, Harelow, Essex.

• YOU are sent off soon.

In fact I wish I could send YOU to Australia and your upside-down comments with you.

Since when was Bob Paisley a bad judge of a player?

Oh second thoughts stay in England — you've obviously had too much tea already.

Rochdale — Europe's best!

I'M outraged at people who support big clubs like Liverpool and Manchester United.

I am a Rochdale supporter and last year we beat Newport, who beat Shrewsbury, who beat West Ham, who beat Arsenal, who beat Liverpool, who beat Nottingham Forest.

That makes Rochdale the best team in Europe.

Mark McGarry, Newry, Co. Down, N. Ireland.

• WHAT'S that make Alderman, who beat your side 2-0 on your own ground in March.

If you have any more football jokes send them in.

By the way . . . you're booked.

Booked!

I'M Anthony Hawkswell and I'm in charge of the 'Outraged' column.

I stand no nonsense . . . any back-chat and I'll send you off!

I'll be giving marching orders to the writer of the most outrageous letter of the week and booking others who make me really angry.

And just to make it more interesting I'll pay £5 to the person I send off and £2 to each one I book.

If you dare, write to me at 'Outraged', Match Weekly, Midgate House, Midgate, Peterborough.

Match meets Bobby McDonald

SUPER MAC

City's secret weapon

Above: Manchester City's Bobby McDonald:
"This is the furthest I've ever been in the FA Cup and I intend to put up one hell of a fight to reach Wembley."

'SUPER MAC' could be Manchester City's secret weapon in their bid to reach the FA Cup Final.

Left back Bobby McDonald, who destroyed
Everton in the Quarter Finals with two goals, has suddenly emerged as one of the First Division's most unlikely dangermen.

After emerging as City's Cup hero in the 3-1 replay victory over Everton at Maine Road, he followed up with goals against West Brom and Stoke in the next two League matches to complete the most successful scoring run of his career.

That's seven in all this season for the £270,000

"When I heard it was Manchester City who wanted me
I can't recall ever feeling so good"
... Bobby McDonald.

Scottish defender who was plucked, last October, from the obscurity of Coventry reserves to play a significant part in John Bond's remarkable transformation of City.

"I'm always encouraged by the manager to attack, although most of my goals have come from corners and free kicks," says the 25-year-old who ironically helped Aston Villa topple John Bond's Norwich side in the 1975 League Cup Final.

"We work a lot in training on set pieces and I'm just fortunate that I am often in the right place at the right time to finish off some of the moves.

"Obviously the two goals against Everton were the most important of my career and I would love to pop one in against Ipswich in the semi-final."

It has been a real rags to riches story for the former Scottish youth international whose career was at the crossroads when John Bond moved in to offer him a new lease of life.

"I wanted a move from Coventry because I felt my career had been standing still for too long. I had been there for four seasons and never missed a first team game. I felt I was at a club that probably weren't going to get anywhere and I was wandering in the same direction as they were," recalls Bobby.

"When I heard it was Manchester City who wanted me I can't recall ever feeling so good. To be in line for a club like City was almost unbelievable. I'm very grateful for being given the chance at Maine Road."

Now Bobby has his eyes set on another Wembley appearance: "This is the furthest I've been in the FA Cup and I intend to put up one hell of a fight to reach Wembley."

"Ipswich are a very good side with several players capable of winning any match, but it's a one-off game and it will be just a matter of who can put away the chances on the day."

"We're playing with a lot of confidence and are getting some good results. I just hope we can get the right result against Ipswich."

WIGAN'S NEW BOSS LARRY LLOYD HAS LEARNED FROM THE BEST

TAKE a slice of Brian Clough, add a sprinkling of Bill Shankly and on paper you have the makings of a top manager for the future.

New Wigan player-manager Larry Lloyd has been schooled under those two managerial giants of Liverpool and Nottingham Forest and as he points out:

"If I haven't learned anything from the likes of Brian Clough, Peter Taylor, Bill Shankly and Bob Paisley, then I don't deserve to sit behind this manager's desk.

"Having had five years at Liverpool and four and a half at Forest one couldn't help but pick up good ideas and habits.

"But I want to be my own man. I'm not intending to copy Brian Clough although I shall be marrying things I've picked up on my travels to my own thoughts.

"I don't think I shall be quite as rigid with the rule book as Brian, but the players know that I am the boss whether I'm playing or sitting behind the desk.

"I am always prepared to listen to advice from anyone, whether it's Bobby Robson at Ipswich or a fellow Fourth Division manager who knows the problems in the lower divisions."

After winning almost every honour in the game during his career, defender Larry is now facing the challenge of building a League history for the competition's youngest club.

"It's a big challenge, but I've nothing to live up to — not that it would bother me anyway."

home defeat by Rochdale: "Not a particularly happy way in which to start, but thankfully things have improved a little since then.

"I'm in the process of assessing all the players at the club to see which of them are going to play a part in my bid to get the club promotion as soon as possible."

It's obviously a strange feeling for the former England centre half to be playing in the Fourth Division after winning First Division and European Championship medals.

"I've found that you haven't got as much time on the ball in defensive situations in the Fourth and the game seems to be played at 100mph, but I'll get used to it," he says.

"My immediate ambition is to get Wigan promoted to Division Three, but in the future I want to manage a First Division club whether it's Wigan or someone else."

HEREFORD UTD

PROGRAMME GUIDE

HEREFORD United are facing an uphill struggle in their fight to avoid seeking re-election to the Football League at the end of the season.

And their rather colourless match day programme tends to reflect the gloomy times the club is going through at the moment.

The publication for the Fourth Division fixture with Bury provided very basic information for 20p, although nothing more could possibly be expected from a club in the depths of the league.

There was a double page spread on the visitors and a page of comment from manager Frank Lord plus the usual statistics and club news.

Apart from a team group of Bury, the only other picture was a centre page action shot from a previous game although that was quite eye-catching.

There was certainly no shortage of club information — even the Supporters Club getting a page to publicise their vital role.

There are obviously more enterprising programmes around in the Fourth Division, but one has to weigh-up costs with amount of support in the uncomfortable areas of the Football League.

GOLDEN GOAL

Arnold Muhren is watched by team-mate Steve McCall as he makes yet another telling pass.

Arnold Muhren (Ipswich) v Nottingham Forest. FA Cup Quarter-final, Portman Road, Ipswich, Tuesday, March 10, 1981.

MODEST Dutchman Arnold Muhren is quick to admit the limitations of his right foot.

He says with a smile: "Often, the only time I use it is in the car on the brake and accelerator pedals."

But it certainly came into its own against Nottingham Forest.

The goal finished off a superb 11-pass move which started with an Eric Gates interception on their own area and a switch of play by Paul Mariner to Mick Mills, who played it down the line to Alan Brazil.

Arnold recalls: "Micky got it back and played a great ball to Frans Thijsen and as soon as Paul Mariner went up for his cross I thought 'that's it, I'll have a go.'"

"I can't remember a time when I've used my right foot like that before, so it was a special one," added Arnold.
